Manuscript ID:

Title:

Please rate the manuscript using the following scale in the categories listed below; We would also greatly appreciate any constructive comments you have on how the author might improve the quality of their manuscript. Use the "Editor Section" for providing your thoughts as to whether the article should be published and for comments that you would prefer not be shared with the author.

Please Note: This is a Trend article. Trend articles are intended to present new ideas as well as studies or descriptions of programs in the early stages of development. Trend articles are envisioned as a means of quickly disseminating innovative ideas, descriptions of new programs and preliminary results from research and evaluation studies. The preliminary nature of the material submitted should be taken into account in the review process though descriptions of new programs are expected to have at least some reasonable level of formative evaluation data. Please review this article in reference to the intended purpose of Trend articles.
